DEFENDANT LOUISIANA-PACIFIC CORPORATION’S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF MOTION TO DISMISS COUNT SIX

Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b) and 7(b), Defendant Louisiana-Pacific Corporation (“Louisiana-Pacific”) submits this Memorandum of Law in Support of its “Motion to Dismiss Count Six” filed concurrently herewith. As set forth below, Rule 12(b)(6) requires this Court to dismiss Count Six because it fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

BACKGROUND

This is one of eighteen elated lawsuits before this Court stemming from operations at a former lumber mill in Lockhart, Alabama (the “Facility”).¹ Plaintiff claims that Defendant

Pactiv Corporation (“Pactiv”) or its predecessor owned and operated the Facility from “the late 1950’s” until November 1983. Complaint, ¶ 22, 63. Louisiana-Pacific acquired the Lockhart Facility in November 1983. Complaint, ¶ 63.

Relative to the instant motion, Plaintiff claims that Louisiana-Pacific manufactured chemically-treated wood products and sold scrap wood to residents of Lockhart and Florala, Alabama for use as firewood. Complaint, ¶¶ 107-108, 171-174. According to Plaintiff, chemicals made the firewood “defective and unreasonably dangerous when burned.” Complaint, ¶ 175. Count Six of the Complaint asserts a “Products Liability” against Louisiana-Pacific under the Alabama Extended Manufacturer’s Liability Doctrine (“AEMLD”). As shown below, however, Plaintiff fails to allege the required elements of a valid AEMLD claim.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6), motions to dismiss must be granted where Plaintiff “can prove no set of facts in support of [a] claim which would entitle [Plaintiff] to relief.” Jones v. Phyfer, 761 F.2d 642, 644 (11th Cir. 1985)(quoting Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41, 45-46 (1957)). This Court must therefore dismiss all causes of action that Alabama law does not recognize, see, e.g., Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors of PSA, Inc. v. Edwards, No. 05-12320, 2006 WL 212219, at *11 (11th Cir. Jan. 30, 2006), and all causes of action for which Plaintiff fails to allege the necessary legal elements. See, e.g., Lotierzo v. Woman’s World Med. Ctr., Inc., 278 F.3d 1180, 1182 (11th Cir. 2002).

ARGUMENT AND CITATION OF AUTHORITY

Pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6), this Court should dismiss Count Six for failure state a valid claim under the AEMLD.

A. Elements of a Valid AEMLD Claim.

The AEMLD is a judicially-created doctrine of strict liability for defective products based on Section 402A of the Restatement of Torts (Second). See Casrell v. Altec Indus., Inc., 335 So. 2d 128, 132-33 (Ala. 1976); Atkins v. Am. Motors Corp., 335 So. 2d 134, 140-41 (Ala. 1976). To establish liability under the AEMLD, a plaintiff must show that (i) an injury was caused by one who sold a product in a defective condition that made the product unreasonably dangerous to plaintiff as the ultimate user or consumer; (ii) the seller was engaged in the business of selling such a product; and (iii) the product was expected to, and did, reach the user without substantial change in the condition in which it was sold. See Casrell, 335 So. 2d at 132-33; Atkins at 335 So. 2d 140-41.

B. Plaintiff Fails to Allege that She Used or Consumed a Defective Product.

As noted above, the AEMLD imposes liability on parties who sell a defective product that is “unreasonably dangerous to the plaintiff as the ultimate user or consumer.” Casrell, 335 So. 2d at 132; Atkins, 335 So. 2d at 141; see also Rudd v. Gen. Motors Corp., 127 F. Supp. 2d 1330, 1333 (M.D. Ala. 2001). As the Alabama Supreme Court has noted, AEMLD liability attaches only because a defendant “has exposed expected users of a product not reasonably safe to unreasonable risks.” Atkins, 335 So. 2d at 141. Thus, Plaintiff cannot state a valid AEMLD claim unless she was “the ultimate user or consumer” of the firewood. Casrell, 335 So. 2d at 131.

In this case, Plaintiff does not allege that she actually used or consumed any chemically-treated scrap wood sold by Louisiana-Pacific. Complaint, ¶¶ 171-174. Nor does Plaintiff allege that she indirectly or “passively” burned or used any allegedly contaminated firewood. Id.; see Atkins, 335 So. 2d at 148-49 (endorsing Restatement (Second) of Torts § 402(A), cmt. 1). Instead, Plaintiff asserts an AEMLD cause of action based solely on the allegation that the general public burned chemically-treated scrap wood sold by Louisiana-Pacific. Complaint, ¶ 173.

Count Six thus fails as a matter of law. Because Plaintiff does not allege that she burned, used, consumed, or otherwise had a tangible connection to a defective product, Plaintiff cannot state a claim under the AEMLD. Rule 12(b)(6) therefore requires this Court to dismiss Count Six.

C. Plaintiff Fails To Allege That Louisiana-Pacific Was “In The Business” Of Selling Firewood.

Likewise, Plaintiff fails to allege that Louisiana-Pacific was “in the business of” selling firewood. Alabama law clearly establishes that the AEMLD only applies if “the seller was engaged in the business of selling” the allegedly defective product. Casrell, 335 So.2d at 132-33; Atkins at 335 So.2d 140-41. “That requirement excludes isolated or occasional sellers.” Baugh v. Bradford, 529 So. 2d 996, 999 (Ala. 1988). Occasional sellers simply do not fall within the ambit of the AEMLD. McGraw v. Furon Co., 812 So. 2d 273, 275-76 (Ala. 2001).

Here, Plaintiff seemingly attempts to side-step this element of a viable AEMLD claim by alleging that Louisiana-Pacific’s Facility “was engaged in the manufacture and sale and placement of wood and wood products.” Complaint, ¶ 174. Plaintiffs do not allege, however, that Louisiana-Pacific was “in the business” of selling firewood, the specific product allegedly causing their injuries. Indeed, Louisiana-Pacific allegedly sold the firewood as scrap material or co-product, not as a product manufactured as primary part of Louisiana-Pacific's regular business. Complaint, ¶¶ 107-108, 171-174. Because the occasional sale of a discarded item does not render the seller "in the business" of selling a defective product, McGraw, 812 So. 2d at 275-76, Count Six fails to state a viable claim under the AEMLD and should be dismissed.

D. Plaintiff Fails to Allege that Defective Firewood Reached End Users or Consumers Without Substantial Change in Condition, or that Louisiana-Pacific Expected it to Do So.

Not only does Plaintiff fail to allege that she actually used, consumed, or was exposed to any defective firewood and that Louisiana-Pacific was in the business of selling firewood, Plaintiff also omits two other critical elements of a prima facie AEMLD claim. Proof that the allegedly-defective product reached the consumer without substantial change in the condition in which it was sold is an "essential element" of a viable AEMLD claim. See Hannah v. Gregg, Bland & Berry, Inc., 840 So. 2d 839 (Ala. 2002). Plaintiff must also show that a selling defendant actually expected the product to reach the end user or consumer without substantial change in condition. Id. Without both of these showings, Plaintiff cannot recover under the AEMLD. Clarke Indus., Inc. v. Home Indem. Co., 591 So. 2d 458 (Ala. 1991).

Here, Count Six does not allege that Louisiana-Pacific sold firewood that ultimately reached Plaintiff, as the end user or consumer, in substantially the same condition as when it was sold. See Complaint, ¶¶ 171-174. Nor does Plaintiff assert that Louisiana-Pacific expected the firewood to reach the end users or consumers without a substantial change in condition. Id. Accordingly, Count Six fails to state an AEMLD claim upon which relief can be granted and should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, this Court should dismiss Count Six pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6) for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

Respectfully submitted this 22nd day of December, 2006.
